We've Become A Trashless Town

Meatless Monday concluded appropriately in Andover with a question of where to chuck bones, refuse and garbage, as voters issued a trash boycott at town meeting and virtually classed Andover as a refuse free community.

In a confusing conclusion to the annual session, the voters rejected both the Cyr-Cronin-Brooks site on Woburn street and the Lowell Junction Industrial area for new landfill operations, initiated a municipal refuse collection service at $200,000, provided it is taken out of town at an additional cost of $120,000.

The action sends the town manager and selectmen back to work to seek conformance to the mandate of the session - out-of-town disposal of refuse picked up in town.

Rejection of the two proposed landfill sites (the Lowell Junction area considered too costly was unanimously rejected) leaves the town with no dumping area, since the state has ordered the present Chandler Road site closed. State Health authorities, following a January hearing, said they would await town meeting action to take action on enforcement of their order to rescinding Chandler road as an assigned landfill operation.

Selection of a new site, up for consideration for a third time, after being rejected at special sessions in October, again received a majority vote on the Woburn street location, but again failed to attain the two-thirds majority necessary for appropriation of $360,000 to acquire the land.

Again leading the opposition to the Cyr-Cronin property was Raymond Taylor of Charlotte Drive, who reiterated his feelings and those of his neighbors to the proposal.

Taylor asked the meeting to reject the two new sites and accept municipal pickup and out-of-town disposal.

Chairman Roger W. Collins of the selectmen asked the town to afford the board with alternatives to provide a satisfactory solution to the town's dump problems as discussion of the four articles dealing with the

A Citizen Answers Need

For over a year Andover officials have been seeking a solution to the town's dump problems.

Monday night, it was the persistence and study of a private citizen which resulted in the possibility of in town refuse pickup and out-of-town disposal as the feasible solution, as voted at town meeting.

Gerald Carrier of 7 River St., was instrumental in obtaining an interested contractor to perform the service for Andover. Carrier brought local administrators together with Atty. Stanley Roketenetz of Woburn who heads a family enterprise operating municipal trash and garbage collection service.

Carrier said the firm expressed an interest in the Andover pickup service but had not had the opportunity to bid on the contract.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin noted that Carrier's efforts were much appreciated. The manager said there was no general center for putting the matter out to bid, other than the news media. In the building trades, there are agencies which frequently carry bids on contracts.

Austin said that the telephone book was searched for possible contractors. The Woburn firm was just simply overlooked when the town was seeking bids.

What will happen now, Austin said, is the town will put the contract as stipulated at town meeting out to bid and he has been informed the $320,000 appropriated Monday night will be sufficient.

There remain a lot of details to be worked out before putting the contract out to bid, the manager said, not the least of which is to find if garbage can be collected simultaneously with refuse.

Billerica officials, who have charge of the depository the contractor will use, has informed Andover that it will not accept garbage.

The manager said a target date of the first of July is being considered for initiation of the service.

Other considerations include whether the state will allow continued use of the Chandler road dump site for the disposal of recyclable materials, trees, leaves and brush.

Selection of another landfill site, preferably the Cyr-Cronin location on Woburn street, would have provided the town with a relief valve, the manager noted.

As for other phases of municipal pickup, the contract to be worked on will include such items as pickup of major items, such as washers, refrigerators, bags of leaves, etc., in general adjusting to meet the needs.

Veterinary Hospital Rejected By Voters

Rezoning to accommodate a veterinary hospital in Andover was defeated for a second time in as many years, Monday night as voters rapped up the 1973 annual town meeting.

The appeal of Dr. Richard V. Lindsay, Lowell street veterinarian, who wishes to expand his operations at his present location to accommodate his increasing practice was rejected through failure to obtain a two-thirds majority vote of approval.

In addition to resolving the town's dump problems, the zoning issue was the prime item on the agenda of the fourth and final session of the town's annual business session, which this year had an average attendance of 1,400, who carved a possible $4 increase in the tax rate through their actions.

Dr. Lindsay, who had proposed rezoning a year ago and had worked with the planning board since that time to establish veterinary hospital zone for the town, had opposition from Arthur Peatman of Cutler road, who had opposed the proposal a year ago and Stanley Saba of the planning board.

The veterinarian explained to the meeting the need for expanding his facilities. Additional doctors are now in service and the practice has increased.

Peatman said that he felt there were inadequate controls in the permitted use sections of the proposed bylaw and amended the article to allow such building and practice in permitted use areas, such as industrial zones.

Planning Board member Saba said he felt the bylaw was tailored to meet the needs of one person, that the area was not intended for a major business enterprise and the proposed use would not be in conformance with the neighborhood.

Mrs. Margaret Keck, chairman of the planning board, differed with Saba's minority report. She said the town has no zoning provisions for a veterinary hospital and that such was an oversight.

She also refuted Peatman's charges that controls were inadequate, stating that the bylaw follows suggestions drawn up by a national planning organization.

The proposal needed 655 votes to obtain the two-thirds majority and failed with 436 affirmative votes to 327 negative.

Jane C. Grant of Osgood street addressed the voters on an article which would have required the board of health to give an accounting of the costs of fluoridating the water supply.

When the speaker began to comment on the use of the chemical in the water supply, Moderator William Dalton cut the discussion back to the accounting item.

Chairman Robert A. Walsh of the board of health stated that the article was meaningless since his board is not responsible

Elanders Observe 65th Anniversary

A popular Andover couple was honored this past weekend by family and friends on attaining a significant milestone.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Elander, 96 Elm St., observed their 65th wedding anniversary with a family dinner on Saturday and later received the good wishes of friends and neighbors.

Mr. Elander, at 89, is a periodic visitor to the downtown business he founded and from which he retired in 1959, the Elander and Swanton Co., on Main street.

He was active in business in Andover since 1916 and has been active in civic and fraternal organizations.

The retired businessman was born in Sweden and came to this country in 1901, settling first in Boston. Mrs. Elander, also a native of Sweden came to this country in 1902. The couple married at the Cambridge Lutheran church on March 28, 1908.

Mr. Elander opened a small tailor shop in the Valpey Block in Andover in 1916, later moved to 7 Main street then in 1926 to the present location of the store.

He was among the founders of the Andover Service club and is a past president of the organization. He is a member of St. Matthews Lodge, A.F. and A.M. and has been active in the Men's Club of South church and other organizations of the parish.

The couple has a daughter, May E. Elander.

Testing Of System Gets A Reprieve

The Andover school committee made or projected a dozen decisions Tuesday night, but tabled the gut issue of program assessment by SAT's (Stanford Achievement Tests) to get the inputs of the system's professional educators first.

John Lyons agreed to table his own motion, to institute full-scale instead of sample SAT testing this spring, only until the next meeting, on the superintendent's assurance that this will still leave time to give the tests. The next meeting will be Friday, April 17 at the Bancroft School.

The tabling was a concession by Lyons, Dr. Frank Griggs and John Wragg to Dr. Seifert's request that they hear the professional educators judgments; Seifert pointed out that Lyons' second motion, also still pending, for a principal-headed review board in each school to set and evaluate goals and programs, indicated that he wanted to involve their judgment.

The tabling also was a concession.

VIP Agency Initiated

The Volunteer In-service Program, to be known as V.I.P., became the newest agency of the community Monday when it began service in a room belonging to the International Institute in the Community Service Building, 420 North Canal St., Lawrence.

Gwen Smith was chairman of the Taskforce Committee which reported on March 28 to the parent committee to the effect that a central volunteer agency was needed and an organization was established to set that agency in motion. A slate of officers and board of trustees has been elected to carry on the work of V.I.P. Any person, male or female, young or old, who wants to volunteer his services for any length of time, may register with this agency.

Those agencies that have a volunteer program will also register with the volunteer agency, and a matching program of volunteers will be undertaken.

Other goals of the VIP will be to evolve an information and referral center for this area. Eventually, VIP hopes to hold information for para-professionals and professionals on training, further schooling, and even employment possibilities.

Officers of the VIP program for the year are Robert E. Jolley, chief of special community services for the Lawrence Unit of Danvers State hospital, president; David Rodger, executive director, International Institute, vice president; Sharon Broussard, chaplain's office, Merrimack College, secretary and Robert J. Schwarz.

VOLUNTEER. Mrs. Elinor Washburn was the initial volunteer staff in the Volunteer In-service Program which began operations this week at the Community Service Building, 420 North Canal St., Lawrence.

Fitzgerald To Head Reform Committee

The Committee to Improve Town Meeting, organizing last Thursday to prepare for priorities under the new moderator, William Dalton, elected Frederick P. Fitzgerald chairman.

Gerald H. Silverman will be vice chairman and Mrs. Janet L. Sheerer secretary. Fitzgerald is a former school committeeman, Silverman is assistant principal of the high school and Mrs. Sheerer is a former president of the Andover League of Women Voters.

The first priority of the group will be to screen prospects for appointment to the Finance Committee, which will have three vacancies at the close of Town Meeting.

Dr. Albert J. Greenberg, one of three, has been appointed by Dalton to the new committee effective at the close of his other duties. In addition, Philip K. Allen and Norman P. Merrill have been added to the improvement committee.

The other members are James D. Doherty, Francis P. Reilly and Forrest H. Noyes.

The improvement committee was originally formed two years ago to study the open town meeting system, under which Andover has operated for many years. Since tradition dies hard here, there appears little chance of any serious reform in the foreseeable future.

In an effort to make the system more efficient, Dalton has asked the strengthened committee to make other recommendations dealing with the legislative end of town government. This would include, he said, possible changes in town meeting by-laws.

"They may call themselves friends of town meeting or anything else they chose, so long as the job gets done," said Dalton in announcing the new appointments.

Doherty, long active in town affairs, was convener of the organization meeting. Except for Greenberg, and Allen, who will be out of town for several weeks, all members attended.

Ask Essex Broadway!

Years ago they decided that once they'd got the last of their boys through college they'd take a real Second Honeymoon. So all the time they were saving for college, saving for Herb's retirement, Herb was stashing away a special Caribbean account on the sly. High interest on their savings, low interest on their loan did the trick. And it all happened at Essex Broadway!

situation were presented.

Collins asked for approval of the Cyr-Cronin site, continue as long as possible at Chandler road while the administration seeks and out-of-town contract, and have funds available for contracting for the out-of-town disposal.

The chairman noted that as of 4:30 p.m. Monday, an out-of-town disposal possibility was presented, but the board had not had sufficient time to study the matter.

He also asked for permission to appoint a committee to study the refuse problem and make recommendations.

It was Gerald Carrier of River Street, who brought forth the out-of-town contractor for consideration. He had made arrangements for representatives of a Woburn firm to confer with the selectmen and to submit a proposal to pick up the refuse in town and dispose of it in Billerica.

Director of Public Works Robert E. McQuade, who has spearheaded the town's studies of the dump matters and the proposed municipal refuse pickup, informed the meeting of the past history of the landfill situation, and also reported on the regional solution to the problem, which is to make an area facility available in Methuen.

As for the disposal of refuse in Billerica, Chairman Collins said that as of Monday night, in conferring with officials in that community, the board had been informed that there was "no way Billerica would take Andover's garbage."

This complicated matters slightly, since if the combined pickup of trash and garbage could not be accomplished, then funds would be needed to renew the garbage collection contract.

The original vote on the $70,000 appropriation for garbage collection was voided by Moderator William A. Dalton when a voter appealed for an explanation. Following the information that there was confusion about the issue, an amendment by Arthur Heifetz to allow appropriation of funds conditionally was approved.

Atty. John C. Doherty of the Finance committee issued a minority report against acceptance of the Cyr-Cronin site for a landfill. Atty. Doherty said that the only thing that has force of law is the action of town meeting. He recommended remaining at the Chandler Road site despite state orders, in view of 170 communities in the state now operating in violation of regulations. If an additional, or new site is acquired, Atty. Doherty felt the state would move more quickly in making the town move to a new location.

Selectman Alan French informed the meeting that the selectmen were performing the functions requested by actions of the October town meetings, namely submit proposals to the annual town meeting.

He noted that it was the selectmen who must make the final and legally binding decisions and asked the voters to follow the board's recommendations.

Mr. Taylor, however, pleaded with the voters not to offer alternatives but to give firm direction, expressing a feeling similar to Atty. Doherty with respect to the Chandler Road landfill. Taylor said he felt a regional solution would come soon and that the present dump site would suffice until then.

After rejection of the two new sites, the voters turned their attention to the appropriation for out-of-town collection. By a vote of 466-277 the sum of $120,000 was provided. On the matter of municipal pickup, a standing vote was all that was necessary after Chairman Collins appealed for the $200,000 appropriation with the comment, "now that you want us to take it out of town, will you let us pick the trash up at the curb?"

Enrichment Programs To Be In Summer Activities

By Gary C. Ralph

In our continuing efforts to schedule activity that reflects community interests and needs, we are attempting to plan the playgrounds in the same manner.

In the past, we have solicited suggestions in program, facility and location. The response has been most helpful in outlining a restructured program for this summer. It is our intention to introduce enrichment activities into the program and provide a multiplicity of choices of activity for youngsters who participate in our program. Integral to the restructured program is the use of school facilities, both for outdoor and indoor activities. This in no way detracts from the community use of the neighborhood playgrounds. The schools simply provided the department with the potential of expanded programs in a facility designed for such activity.

The playgrounds will still be in use by local youngsters on a daily basis. In determining objectives we decided to offer three programs that will reflect an increase in enrichment activities and one program we will consider a model program. I would like to briefly describe our model program.

The model program will divide the schedule of daily activities into age categories of grades K through 3 and 4th grade through 6th grade. There will be activities available for 7th and 8th grade also but based more on recreation integrating with opportunities to assist in the younger children's programs. It is our intention, utilizing school grounds and some inside facilities, to offer a choice of activities on a rotation basis. The activities will include a full range of high and minimal organization physical education games in addition to such activities as music, crafts, woodworking, knitting, painting, photography, drama and many others. These will be presented in a weekly schedule to each of the designated age groups. We also intend to offer selected special occasion activities such as traveling zoo, Boston Children's Theatre and puppet shows.

The daily hours will be 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. rather than the normal split day the department has offered in the past.

We hope the changes in the structure of our playground program will achieve the goals of a concentrated experience, an opportunity to learn and experiment with new skill, personal choice in activity, growth in responsibility as well as the fun and freedom that summer promises to each youngster.

Next week I would like to tell you some more about our plans for the summer. I'd like to hear from any of you who have suggestions to make. We want to be flexible enough to meet as many interests as possible this summer.

Dr. Spiegel Is Keynote Speaker

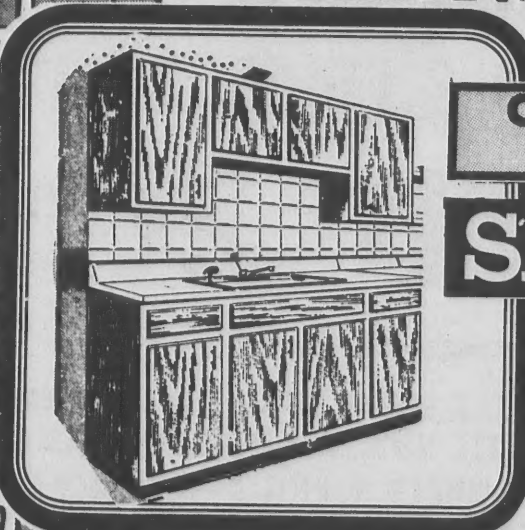

Dr. Lawrence S. Spiegel, 76 Holt Road, Andover, was the keynote speaker and conducted a technical workshop at the annual convention of the Connecticut Bakers Association. The convention, held last week, was devoted to examining new methods and materials available to the baking trade.

A food products consultant and lecturer, Dr. Spiegel also appeared on Channel 7 Newsmakers last Sunday afternoon. The program was devoted to the current meat boycott and grocery products pricing.

Union membership is generally lowest in the Southern states, where about one-tenth of all wage and salary workers belong to unions. In every other region, the percentage was twice as high or more.

THE WEST PARISH 'A' basketball team recently captured its fourth straight Andover Church League championship, winning the Intermediate Division title with a perfect 9-0 league record. The club's overall record was 16-3, and in the past six years West 'A' has compiled a 104-7 record while taking five league championships in that time. Front row (l-r): Joel Smith, Jim Wetterberg, Kim Hale, Steve Serley and Brian Bronson. Back row (l-r): Jon Crush, Dave Alexander, Coach Rick Harrison, Dave Hill and Dave Callaghan.

Marauders Survive First Test

The Andover Marauders passed their first test in the annual Lawrence Jewish Community Center High School Basketball Tournament earlier this week, bombing the Wallie's team of Lawrence, 84-30.

The victory pushed the Marauders into the quarterfinals of the 16-team tourney, and they will square off against a tough Haverhill C.C.D. quintet tonight.

The Andover club was never in trouble against the Wallie's, composed primarily of Central Catholic basketball players, as the Marauders raced to a quick 21-5 first quarter lead and continued to dominate throughout.

All 10 Marauders hit the scoring column, with five of them cracking double figures.

Carnel Cooper, who recently completed another excellent season for Andover High's Merrimack Valley Conference champions, joined Andover West freshman Bill Alexander as the leading scorers with 13 points apiece.

Cooper also dominated both boards, blocked a half-dozen shots and generally intimidated the Wallie's shooters. Cooper's inside defensive work forced the losers to go primarily with long outside shots.

Next in the well-balanced scoring parade was John McDonald, a standout performer with Andover's undefeated 1972-73 JV team, with 12 points and several rebounds.

Jeff Winters, another sophomore player on the JV quintet, completed the twin digit scorers with 10 points.

Guard Tom Barenboim scored 8 points off a series of fine driving lay-ups.

Andover East freshman Glenn Verrette flipped through 5 points and turned in a fine defensive effort with several steals.

Varsity guard Joe Conlon, also hampered by a sore thumb, tossed in 4 points and handed out numerous assists.

Andover West freshman Jay Doherty and Barry Bronson completed the high-powered opening-game offense with 4 points apiece.

Other strong teams still left in the field include defending champ Medford Rotary and North Andover, who are matched in the same bracket and will probably collide in the semifinals.

The biggest upset of the early rounds came when the Evil Eyes of Lawrence were nipped by the Junior Lancers of Lawrence, 60-59, on a tip-in with 18 seconds remaining.

The Evil Eyes' squad included Larry Hester, who netted over 500 points for Lawrence Voke two years ago, and Lawrence High varsity standouts Tony Silva and Phil Weeks.

Natators Score High

Andover and Reading Highs, for the first time were represented at the scholastic New England Championships, held recently at Bridgewater State College.

Although neither school has an official swimming team, three students swam and scored for their schools. Dana Richdale of Reading scored 3 points by placing in the 100 yard butterfly. Barry and Eddie Eisenberg of Andover, scored a total of 35 points, placing in the allowed number of events they could swim. Barry scored 24 points by placing second in the 400 yard freestyle and fourth in the 100 yard backstroke, while Ed scored eleven points by placing seventh in the 100 yard breaststroke and ninth in the 200 individual medley.

Both of the Eisenbergs concluded their winter season by helping their A.A.U. team, the New England Barracudas, to uphold its winning streak. Ed placed in the finals of the 100 yard breaststroke at the Region I Championships held at Rutgers University. Barry placed third in overall high points at the New England Senior Championships, to help his team to place second. He again contributed to the Barracuda's second place win at the Little Rhody meet by placing high in the 100 yard backstroke, the 500 yard freestyle, the 100 yard breaststroke and the 200 yard individual medley.

MOVING DAY. It was moving day at the Shawsheen and Doherty schools last Friday as the buildings were cleared to make room for contractors who will be renovating the two schools. Assisting in the move are Mark Fleischer, Mark Sweetser and Charles Rogers.

Coyle Is Bancroft Principal

South School's principal John Coyle has been named principal of Bancroft in an administrative transfer which will take effect on or about May 1.

Coyle will replace former Bancroft principal Ed Regan, who was elected Andover's assistant superintendent in February, and is presently covering the office at Bancroft and working into his new central administrative duties. Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert says that a new principal for South will be chosen as soon as possible, to facilitate planning at that school for next year.

Seifert said he honored Coyle's request for the transfer to Bancroft because of Coyle's contribution at South, the state of the South faculty, Seifert's judgment of the contributions Coyle could make at Bancroft, and to give Coyle the opportunity to add the principalship of an open concept school to his professional experience.

The South principal told the TOWNSMAN that he already had experience as a teacher in a rigid, self-contained school, as a principal sharing teaching with his faculty and, at South, as principal in an IGE administrative framework where he and his teachers tried to work as if their walls were not there, sharing ideas, teaching, and space. He said he looks forward to adding the experience of working with faculty in a building specifically designed for flexibility in the teaching process.

Coyle, who came to Andover from a principalship in Beverly, in January of 1969, pioneered the IGE (Individually Guided Education) program in Andover. This multi-age group, team-teaching type of administrative school organization is now in use at both South and Shawsheen Schools. Coyle was somewhat instrumental in bringing IGE to the area, by bringing the Wisconsin based concept to the attention of the Merrimack Education Center, now the resource center for the area league of IGE schools.

Two On Dean's List

The academic dean of Assumption College announced that two area students received first honors for their work during the first semester at that college. They were Robert J. Tudisco, a junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Tudisco of 39 Sylvan Terrace, North Andover, majoring in Biology, and Michael J. Charewicz, a freshman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walenty Charewicz of 99 Haverhill St., Andover, majoring in Political Science.

Raytheon Honored

Raytheon's Missile Systems Division plant in West Andover was the recipient of the President's Award for industrial safety, at the 52nd annual Massachusetts Safety Conference of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

A Massachusetts company which makes grinding machines and other abrasive products operates 24 plants in 13 different countries. It has a world-wide payroll of 15,000, of whom 5000 are employed in the main plant in Worcester.

Dr. Miller In Recital At Free Church

Free Christian Church, Elm St., Andover, will present Dr. Max B. Miller, in the last of its winter recitals on the sanctuary organ, Sunday evening, April 8, at 8 p.m.

Dr. Miller, university organist, conductor of the Marsh Chapel Choir and the Seminary Singers, teaches organ and church music at the Boston University School of Theology. He has appeared in many major recitals throughout the United States. Dr. Miller has served as Dean of the Boston Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, is a Fellow in that organization and has served on its board of examiners.

The organ at Free Christian Church, Congregational is a stunning instrument built in 1941 by the Casavant Organ Company, and recently tonally redesigned by the Philip A. Beaudry Co. of Somerville. This program concludes the winter series of 1973. An offering will be received.

NEW LAKE? Heavy rains on Monday created new ponds and lakes in town. Here a section of land at Merrimack College, where an infirmary building is to be located is inundated.

Disability Group To Hear Panel

Learning Disability programs, plans, hopes and philosophies in the schools of Merrimack Valley communities of Andover, Lawrence, Methuen and North Andover will be the subject of a panel discussion at the April 9th meeting of the Merrimack Valley Association for Children with Learning Disabilities. As usual the meeting will be held at the Ballard Vale United Church, Hall Ave. and Clark Road, Andover.

Representing the school departments will be school superintendents Kenneth Seifert, Maurice Smith, Paul Zdanewicz and Peter Garafoli. After the opening statements the audience will be invited to question the speakers.

An added feature of the meeting will be a brand new film which will go on at 7:45 p.m., 15 minutes earlier than usual. The film is entitled, "If a Boy Can't Learn the Way We Teach, We Better Teach the Way He Can Learn". It's the story of 17 year old Mike, a senior who can't read, can't do math, and who is a behavior problem. It's also the story of his teachers and the teaching strategies devised to utilize his strengths and overcome his weaknesses.

The Merrimack Valley ACLD is an organization set up largely to assist parents in doing something about their children's learning problems. It strongly urges parents to attend the forthcoming Spring Conference on Learning Disabilities at the Sheraton Boston Hotel April 13 and 14. At this conference parents will be able to hear and meet many outstanding Professionals, who are continuing to create better methods and solutions for use by individual parents and by school systems. Parents have a tendency to have no idea what to do or how to do it when they run up against a learning problem with their child. This conference will be, for them, a golden opportunity to get the necessary knowledge.

The conference will open at 9 a.m. April 13 with the keynote speech by world renowned L.D. pioneer, teacher, innovator Dr. Helmer Myklebust, University of Illinois, who has been described by one leading L.D. specialist as "The L.D. parents' one best hope". Paid up Mass. Child Members will receive a conference discount.

Those needing transportation, via bus, should contact Mary Kelly or Edith Sanborn.

Vacation Club Plans

Another Andover - North Andover YMCA Vacation Club will be conducted during the Spring school vacation. Activity will start at 9 a.m. and end at 3:30 p.m. daily. A few openings still exist and registrations of Andover and North Andover children are being accepted at the Andover Y office.

YMCA Physical Director Walter J. Kimball, Sr., assisted by a staff of Y leaders, will direct a program which will include swimming, roller skating, bowling, ice skating, movies, trampolines, gym games, crafts, etc.

'Future Shock' To Be Presented

"Future Shock" a new documentary film narrated by Orson Welles, will be presented to the community Wednesday, April 12, at 8 p.m. at the West Elementary School.

Annetta Freedman, library director, said she has asked Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert to lead a discussion of the 40 minute film afterwards. No admission will be charged.

The film is based on the book "Future Shock," by Alan Toffler. The book defines "future shock" as "the sickness which comes from too much change in too short a time - a reaction to changes that happen so fast we cannot absorb them. For those who are unprepared, the effects can be devastating."

Mrs. Freedman, who has obtained the documentary film for use in the schools over a two week period, invites parents and all interested members of the community to this preview and discussion of the film.

University Home Services of Needham screens couples for moral character, responsibility and good judgment, then sends them to your home for an interview and approval. Most couples are college age or graduates. They prepare all meals, do the laundry, maintain the house, and manage details such as garbage disposal and snowplowing. It's arranged for the sitters to become acquainted with the children beforehand so they won't be strangers when the parents leave.

The agency can also provide housewatchers, chaperones, tutors and home caretakers.

Troop 78 On Trip To Onway

Scouts worked on advancement, took a hike to the Lemon Squeeze and toured Camp Onway so as to become familiar with the facilities before the Troop goes to Camp for the period of July 8 through 22. Leadership was provided by Fred Cummings, Chancel Therrien and Ken Young.

New members, Keith Esefow and Craig Poirier, are welcomed into Troop 78.

The Troop now has a newly formed Troop Leaders Corp with Paul Girard as Patrol Leader and including members Scott Craig and Mark Peters.

Other elections were Senior Patrol Leader, Doug Therrien; Patrol Leaders, Doug Cummings, Peter Sullivan and Kevin Peters; Assistant Patrol Leaders, Phillip Weeks, John Hoyle and Mark Pawlik; Quartermaster, Keith Esefow and Assistant Quartermaster, Curt Valcourt.

The Troop is planning a fund raising auction May 12, in the West Elementary Parking Lot. Proceeds will be used to help send the Scouts to Camp Onway this summer. Donations of any type would be appreciated.

Rabies Clinic

The Andover Board of Health will sponsor a Rabies Vaccine Clinic on Saturday morning, April 7, and also Saturday, April 14, at the Shop area of the East Junior High School.

The clinic will be for dogs owned by Andover residents and will be conducted by Dr. Richard D. Lindsay. Clinic hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

Because of increased costs of materials, the fee for immunization will be $2. The vaccine is guaranteed for a two-year period.

Babe Ruth League To Hold Tryout Sessions

The Andover Babe Ruth baseball team, a member of the eight-team Greater-Lawrence Babe Ruth League, will hold tryouts for all interested boys between the ages of 13-15 on successive weekends, April 14, 15, 21 and 22.

All tryout sessions will be held at the Andover Playstead, behind the East Junior High, beginning at 1 p.m. each day.

A special invitation is extended to all 1972 graduates of the Andover Little League.

The local Babe Ruth club will carry a 15-player roster, and all 15 positions are open. Returning players from last year must earn their spot again this season.

The Andover club will play a 21-game schedule, beginning early in June and continuing through the post-season playoffs late in July.

The remaining seven teams in the inter-town league are Methuen, North Andover, Tower Hill, South Lawrence East, Prospect Hill, North Lawrence and South Lawrence West.

Andover has established a winning tradition through the years, although regular-season and playoff championships have been scarce in recent seasons.

Last year Andover posted a 13-8 regular-season record for a third-place finish. Eventual playoff champion Tower Hill then eliminated Andover in their best-of-three playoff semifinal series.

Many graduates of the Babe Ruth team have continued on to play standout baseball in both high school and college.

Last year's Greater-Lawrence All-Star team, which included Andover players Keith Verrette, Dave Mosher and Steve Fabiani, won District and Area titles while advancing to the double-elimination State Babe Ruth Tournament semifinals at Leominster.

It is the best baseball available for boys in the 13-15 age bracket, and all Andover boys are eligible and stand an equal chance of making the squad prior to the tryouts.

In addition, Andover will be sporting a "new look" this season with the purchase of blue-and-gold double-knit uniforms.

Returning to coach the team again this year are Joe Grillo and Rick Harrison.

A new slate of officers has been elected. The Andover Babe Ruth president is J. Thom Lawler, athletic director and varsity hockey coach at Merrimack College. Bernie Pasquale is the vice-president, with Tom Lyons as treasurer and Rick Harrison as secretary - publicist.

The Board of Directors includes past presidents Ernie Verrette and Bob Flannery, as well as Gus Fabiani, Dave Mosher, Eagle-Tribune news editor Bill Ferguson, Dr. William O'Reilly, Bill Moriarty, Jim White and Dexter Lagasse.

A professional writers' course taught by a Franciscan friar for the past five years has been drawing aspiring and practising writers to the Christian Formation Center.

The Curious Citizen wonders about the drawing card and asks some questions. "I know he teaches at the seminary next door to the Center," said an Andover woman who has joined the out-of-towners in the weekly writing class which the Roman Catholic adult education center on River Road offers to the public. "But you'll have to ask what he teaches there. All I know is his writing course is fascinating."

The fascinating friar is Father Luke Ciampi, O.F.M. who teaches third and fourth year English and physical science at St. Francis Seminary.

This Franciscan's rough brown robe and sandals, his girth, humour, warmth and informality inevitably bring Friar Tuck to mind. He does look the part. But that's too easy. This Andover priest and friar is an intellectual, a man of literary parts, and a man who understands discipline. He has to.

It's true he is a teacher at the Seminary - he teaches third and fourth year English and physical science as well. But what the professional writing student didn't know is that her creative writing critic is the rector of St. Francis Seminary, headmaster of the 22 seminarians and the 58 day students who also attend the seminary with them as an accredited four-year Roman Catholic high school.

And in yet another, separate role, Father Luke is chaplain to the Third Order of St. Francis, secular, for the Northeastern Province, which extends beyond New England to the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia and includes Toronto, Canada. Its members are men and women in the world who seek to lead Christ-centered lives; they strive to practise the ideals of love, simplicity and humility exemplified by St. Francis of Assisi in the early 13th Century.

Education, writing or editing, and his work as spiritual advisor to this order of men and women in the secular world are intertwined for Father Luke. Conversations in the rector's small office at St. Francis Seminary shed some light on these three worlds, and illuminate the way they reinforce each other.

Father Luke studied at the seminary when it was a school of theology, and taught there for seven years after becoming a priest and a friar. But when he was sent to teach at Cardinal Hayes High School in the Bronx, he immediately began studies at Columbia University, majoring in English, then earning an M.A. in English and Comparative Literature.

He was on his way to a Ph.D. when he discontinued, to begin putting his writing talents to work for the Church. He was asked to found a new Catholic magazine. While continuing his teaching work in the Bronx, he founded and edited "Padre," a national family magazine, for 13 years. Father Luke also was called on by the Catholic Press Association, for promotional work, and has continued church writing and editing stints through the years.

His writing and editing talents now help Father Luke keep in touch with his widely spread Province of the Third Order of St. Francis, as their Provincial Director. He is writer or compiler of some of the letters, pamphlets and booklets which tie together the fraternities of this secular order.

Yet as his writing and editing work deepened, so did his educational involvement. Father Luke picked up a degree in school administration from Duquesne University, and founded Sierra High School in McKeesport, Pa. He was principal and teacher there for six years.

He returned to the leadership of St. Francis Seminary at a time when the number of seminarians throughout the Roman Catholic world was shrinking, just as in other denominations. Under Father Luke, St. Francis' Seminary's response was to open up the seminary to the lay world, and invite non-seminarians to become day students along with the youngsters training for the priesthood, and so far, this seems to be a creative response.

St. Francis' rector sees it as an investment, which has paid dividends. The day students have helped financially, and Father Luke says the "peer group rub-off" has helped both groups. Seminary students gain in emotional stability and in poise from the contact with the non-seminary students, he says; and the day students gain, because some of the seminarians' serious attitude toward scholarship tends to rub off on them. St. Francis' role, then is changing from that of a school for the priesthood alone to becoming "a school for Christian leadership" for both priest and laity.

How strict is the atmosphere? The Curious Citizen notes that the students who pop into the rector's office during the interview, to pick up an assignment, or ask for a weekend permission, as one seminarian did, are both respectful and obviously on friendly terms with their headmaster. Most wore their hair fairly short, some long, but all were well-groomed, well-dressed. Father Luke says St. Francis' basic rule is coat-and-tie, but there are reasonable exceptions, for example in warm weather times, and Father Luke says that good grooming is the most basic rule. Most important of all, he says, is the principle of boys living up to their part of any bargain.

Entrance exams are given once a year in early March, and students come from Lowell, Dracut, Salem, Andover and other area communities. The student body recently has included two Greek Orthodox students, and another non-Roman Catholic boy.

It is clear that the adult professional writing class at the Christian Formation Center next door is an avocation for Father Luke and that he takes real interest in its members.

They come for a variety of reasons, and some who came to fit a narrow work need in their present jobs, instead of for creative writing, drop out. The class ends up each year as a group of 10-18 adults interested in writing toward a professional market; some have been working with Father Luke for five years now, and this obviously is an intellectually and personally refreshing experience for both teacher and the students.

Their mentor harps on economy of words, the need for a slant to a story, and the danger of losing the sense of immediacy in rewriting a piece. He sets up the class as an editorial board to review each other's work.

The class has its successes. John has had an illustrated piece on Thoreau printed in a large metropolitan newspaper. A woman student has a contract to write six pieces. Another student's pieces on Ann Hutchinson are well researched and keep coming. Father Luke thinks there's a book there.

In this context, Father Luke combines his roles of the teacher, the editor and writer, and the Franciscan friar who enjoys working with the people in the outside world.

Sanborn Conquers Equator

On Friday noon, the Sanborn Elementary School became Africa.

Sanborn's 76 fifth graders surrounded visitors with the blazing color of authentically made costumes, jewelry, drum music, exhibits of village life, stories and exotic foods of traditional Africa. It was a remarkable display of children's learning activity in a unit on the cultural traditions of Africa, part of the elementary schools' new inquiry-based social studies curriculum.

At least 200 people were involved in Friday's program, and not the least of them were the Sanborn fifth grade mothers, who had cooked exotic dishes according to the traditional African menus the children and their teachers had researched. Seafood, poultry, meats, vegetables, rice with raisins, and special deserts all made with foods native to Africa, plus African breads, crullers and dainties of strange shapes and delicious tastes were piled on long tables. These were served to parents, school administrators, a school committeeman or two, and ravenous reporters, as costumed students provided drum music and African songs for luncheon music.

Teachers, students and even some parents were in African costume, and the children later put on a program of African drama and dancing.

Authenticity seemed the hallmark. Students were eager to explain their model of a village native to a certain part of Africa, or their handcrafted jewelry but they also wanted to show visitors the great variety of books on African arts, architecture, jewelry making and tribal costumes from which their research was drawn.

Mrs. Marie McCarron, Robert Mirisola and Mrs. Hester Ames, in costume, of course, were the teachers who have led the African study unit. But they say the children were assisted by Art Teacher Sara Luce, music teacher Mary Guziejka, Librarian Jean Pendergrass and by Nancy Soden, a Lesley College student teacher. So much for guidance and help. But the teachers firmly say that "the fifth graders did all the work themselves," and express confidence in what the Sanborn students bring away from their inquiry into traditional Africa.

Mrs. McCarron explains that the purpose of the study was to understand something of the rich cultural heritage of traditional Africa, and observe the mixture of these traditions with modern technology and customs in Africa today.

Another fifth grade teacher,

Robert Mirisola, notes that each student did the research on his own costume, choosing the section of the continent he wished to represent. The jewelry was crafted in art and craft classes, according to traditional African designs.

Another thing that's likely to come out of the African study unit. Children may want more servings of the African recipes their mothers created for grand finale program Friday.

Mirisola said the inquiry-based social studies curriculum, chosen last year by a committee headed by High School assistant principal Gerald Silverman is The Data Bank, a compendium of resources published by Holt, Rhinehart and Winston. It comes on a cart, but it's not individualized, since social studies gains by interaction of students. The African unit is available to other schools in the system and the Sanborn fifth graders will go on to their next unit - the Colonial American and the revolution.

Town Meeting

Town meeting of 1973 passes into history this week with the possibility of a $54 tax rate and some confusion as to what the trash situation is locally.

The tax rate will not be established for a while and some unknowns such as estimates from state revenue sources, must still be determined. But, an additional $120,000 placed on 1973 financial obligations indicates that the levy could reach a four dollar increase this year.

As for the trash and dump situation, the town manager and selectmen will be called upon to carry out some rather confusing direction following Monday night's action.

Approved are funds to pick up refuse throughout the town and deposit it elsewhere. The garbage must be separated and collected otherwise, as matters stand at the moment.

One can not fault the selectmen for offering the town a multitude of choices on the dump matter, as directed at the October town meeting.

That Cost

Statistics reported this past week are interesting, in that it places Andover with having the dubious distinction of having the highest per pupil cost for public education in the area.

With a regional school exempted, Andover leads the list of communities in the area with the cost of an Andover education set at in excess of $1,100.

Administrators can explain these figures in various ways and show that state reimbursements for special programs might reduce the actual amount and so forth.

The fact remains, however, that the cost to the taxpayer is still over $1,100.

One can only hope that we will be successful in our financial struggle toward "excellence" in education.

The Deficit

As the political brass of the state continues to wrestle with solutions to mass transportation problems from time to time, it is well for those of us in this part of the Commonwealth to be cognizant of the latest annual report of the Mass. Bay Transportation Authority.

In the report issued last week, the deficit ridden line achieved a new high in operating the sprawling system at over $70 million more than it received.

The Greater Lawrence area escaped from the clutches of the MBTA a few years ago when the metropolitan agency absorbed the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway system.

Francis W. Trombly, local bus company operator, assumed the local service along with regularly scheduled express service to Boston.

Through his efforts, private enterprise has continued to serve the area with its transportation needs efficiently and without burden to the taxpayer.

The MBTA deficit, as announced this past week will be shared by the participating communities and have a considerable influence on their tax rates.

Such will be the case in such nearby communities as North Reading and Wilmington - a couple of communities Andover Selectman Milton Greenberg feels should be examined for possible inclusion in Andover's regional problems.

Our point in noting the MBTA deficit lies in two major considerations.

Appreciation of the service rendered through Mr. Trombly and his apparent businesslike response to providing mass transportation service to the area.

And, an awareness of state agencies which would impose such mass transit possibilities on communities such as ours which seem to be meeting our needs quite nicely through private enterprise.

The voters at that time asked the selectmen, manager and public works director provide them with figures on municipal collection service and depositing the refuse both in-town and out-of-town. Also, provide a new sanitary landfill site.

The local officials met that commitment Monday night and it now remains for them to carry out the mandate issued by those attending town meeting.

Problems of closing the present sanitary landfill on Chandler Road remain for the state health authorities to decide. The town may now be left without a depository for such items as trees, limbs or other large items, unless the state will allow such future use.

Though the annual session ended in some confusion, the voters must be commended for their continued excellent turnout this year. The issues were vital and the residents responded in goodly numbers to render a representative opinion, the average attendance for the four sessions being about 1,400.

Off The Top

Nature provides some interesting displays or efforts from time to time, not the least of which occurred last weekend.

Grass which has displayed its usual winter drabness for these past several months, seemed to suddenly spring forth with its usual, normal green Monday.

It was an almost overnight thing and our suspicions were confirmed by more expert observers.

Maybe that downpour of Sunday and Monday, which caused cellar problems for many, has advantages for lawns.

A visitor to the Andover town meeting stage Monday night, was Atty. Arthur Williams, retired town moderator.

It was a somewhat relieved appearance he gave to town officials as he visited the area from where he presided for many years prior to his decision not to seek re-election this year.

A random survey of litter in certain locations around Lake Cochichewick shows that the king of beers still reigns supreme.

Beer cans deposited at the roadsides in certain locations, and gathered by the rains on the weekend leads one to believe it might require a few Clydesdales to haul away the empty cans.

Sports fans have a rather plentiful menu these days.

Followers of Boston's professional sports teams have a choice of Stanley Cup playoffs, the Whalers in the playoffs, the Celtics chasing the NBA championship and the Red Sox opening the season all within a short time span this weekend, and most all of the contests attaining some measure of TV coverage.

State Fire Marshal Joseph G. Sneider has issued a warning to Massachusetts residents concerning a matchbook which is being sold in many novelty stores throughout the Commonwealth.

Of The Desk

The matchbook, which is imported from Japan, is twelve inches long and contains one hundred and ninety "safety" matches. The folder is designed with the striking plate located inside the cover. This is extremely dangerous as all the matches are exposed during the lighting of one match.

Marshal Sneider stated that this type of matchbook can cause severe burns to a person since the cover cannot be closed when a match is struck. He advised people in possession of the folder to destroy it in order to safeguard themselves and members of their families.

"Tis Spring, 'Tis Spring" is the theme of the standard flower show to be staged by members of the Northern and Northeastern districts of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts at the 59th annual open house of the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute on April 28 and 29.

There will be five divisions in the show that include artistic design, horticulture, small gardens, education and a junior division. Visitors will see specimen plants and individual flowers grown to perfection and exhibited for their horticultural excellence. Many kinds of house plants, flowering shrubs, trees and bulbs will be entered.

The flower show will be staged in alumni memorial gymnasium from 1 to 5 p.m. on April 28, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 29. Admission for all open house events are free.

Putting a blacktop parking area under a tree or a blacktop drive next to a tree must be done very carefully. It could kill or very seriously injure the tree.

Blacktop changes the microclimate around tree roots, says Robert A. Bartlett. It excludes air vital to the roots. It prevents the soil from soaking up rainfall. And the roots beneath the blacktop are denied a replenishment of nutrients unless the tree is carefully fed, either by invigoration or specially-placed dry tree food.

Poor Economy

"A penny saved is a penny earned."

All too true, but a medication saved could be medical disaster. Prescriptions stored in the medicine cabinet after the illness has passed are poor economy. Many will lose their potency and effectiveness. Others can increase in potency and become potentially dangerous substances. If you, for some reason, want to retain a drug - check with your physician as to its stability on your shelf, and on the advisability of retaining it. In no case should you self-medicate with these left-over drugs. You may think you have the same condition, and you may be right; but if you are wrong, you can cause yourself considerable harm. When a course of illness has passed, destroy leftover medications.

Rabbi Addresses Clergy

Rabbi Harry A. Roth of Temple Emanuel, Lawrence, welcomed members of the Greater Lawrence Clergy Association at a special seminar Tuesday morning, April 3. Similar seminars are scheduled periodically at the Temple to provide clergy of the area the opportunity of meeting with leading scholars of the Jewish faith. The meetings also provide a forum for Jewish scholars to share their expertise with members of the Christian Ministry.

Rabbi David Neiman, a member of the Department of Theology at Boston College in Rome, was this week's speaker. He brought to the Seminar not only a deep knowledge of the Jewish Tradition and biblical scholarship, but also his views on his most recent experience.

Measles Vaccine Advisory

The Board of Health, along with the Boards of Health in other communities, has received an advisory from the Department of Health Commonwealth of Massachusetts relative to the effectiveness of live measles vaccine. Briefly, the State Department recommends that attenuated live measles vaccine should not be given earlier than twelve months of age because of the persistence of interfering maternal antibody. During 1963-1966 it was recommended that this vaccine be given as early as nine months of age with an accompanying dose of Immune Serum Globulin. It has since been found that this procedure is not totally effective and could result in ineffective levels of immunity to measles. Since many cases of measles are now occurring in this group, it is recommended that any child who received measles vaccine under one year of age be revaccinated against measles unless he or she has already had the disease.

Parents who have any question on this matter are advised to contact the Board of Health or consult with their family physician.

The rate of increase in the number of cases of venereal disease has made this a public health problem of epidemic proportion. Paul R. Rogal, M.D. has accepted an invitation from the library staff to talk here on the prevalence of venereal disease
in our area, and what is being done to combat it. If you wish to be brought up to date on the subject, be sure and hear Dr. Rogal. He will be speaking at 8 p.m. on Thursday evening, April 12 in the upstairs
hall.

For our young people we have planned a military chess tournament under the direction of chess. The tournament will begin

Porter. The meeting begins at 7:30. The last meeting of the time the members will discuss

"Crown" by Samuel Butler.

Children's Room

March was a wonderful month
of models. On Wednesday, March 21, we had a strong turnout of model ships - everything from an English Cog and the U.S. Constitution to aircraft
carriers and the Nautilus.
Matthew Lenoe, age 9, Ross
Carlisle, age 10, and Albie Cullen,
9, won first, second, and third prize respectively for model ships made without kits. Michael Gannon, grade 5, David Avery,
10, and David Jennings, grade 4,
won first, second, and third prizes for models made from kits.

Our model animal display on March 28 drew 20 exhibitors and a wide range of animals, including a wooly mammoth, a bald eagle, many horses, and a dragon. Model animals made without kits by Sara Lenoe and David Avery won first and second prize. Third prize in this category was divided among
Paul Avery, Amy McCormick
and Patrick McCormick. Andrew Duffy, Bradley Goodsen, and Robert Pescarella, all from the South School Model Club, placed first, second, and third for models made from kits. Honorable mention for these animal models has to go to: Ross
Lane, Susanna Lenoe, Ann
Avery, Susan Getgood, Peggy
Harrington, Jay Dilorio, Richard
Meagher, Jay Eldred, Jon-marc
Brideau, Randy Mitton, Robert
Sutton, and Scott Nolan. All of these models were very well done.

Thomas Dengler, age 11, is showing his collection of rocks
and minerals in the Children's Room display case this month.

Pajama Party, the hour of games, stories, and songs, open to 3½ to 5 year olds who are not registered in Littlest Listeners, will begin at 6:15 p.m. on Tuesday, April 10. Register at the library so we'll have enough supplies on hand. Come in PJs, of course.

Dr. Stewart In Address To Council

By popular request Dr. James A. Stewart of the Musgrove Building in Andover, was again a guest participant in the Merrimack River Girl Scout Council program held in Lowell on Tuesday, March 20. The "College of Scouting Day" had approximately 150 enrollees in the three-session day.

There were 26 concentrated and exciting learning opportunities which ranged from Culinary Arts, Troop Leadership, Oriental Arts, Creative Drama, Value Clarification and Behavior Clinic.

The latter proved to be one of the highlights of the day as Dr. Jim Stewart gave an informative presentation on the "Problems associated with adolescent females" and then extemporaneously answered the many relative questions from the audience. Concerns about cliques, motivation problems, attitude changes, guidance and/or freedom, and the drug problem were all expressed.

As a school psychologist specializing in counseling children and youth for the past twenty-five years and as a former professor in graduate schools in both Canada and the United States Dr. Stewart was able to provide a broad perspective and sensitivity to the needs of today's youth. His extensive training and experience make him a valued member of Andover's professional community.

Opportunity for lunch, coffee and supper were provided for the day which was planned by the training committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Lounsbury of Wilmington.

Local area residents who attended were: Marilyn Nolan, Mrs. Frank Rawson, Charlotte Tarbox, Rosalie Eaton, Marilyn Hopping, Mrs. Alex Tullis, Nina Anthony, Mrs. Wayne-Stanwood, Mrs. Pat Bernardin, Mrs. Judy Pinckney, Millicent Plant, Cecile Martin, Mrs. George Oleson, Mrs. Bea Pfister and Shirley Jackson.

Greater Bostonians In Concert

The "Greater Bostonians," who will appear in concert on Sunday, April 15 at Tenney Memorial High School Auditorium, are the creation of

Executive Producer Bob Cheyne. The objective was to offer high school students an opportunity to perform current popular music for chorus and orchestra under the most skillful direction and professional surroundings. It was hoped that such training and experience would prove invaluable for later years and the fine youthful talent would be a showcase to New England television viewers of a group of young people truly representative of the finest generation in our nation's history.

More than 300 high school students recommended by their school music directors showed up for the first auditions in January, 1968. The requirements were talent, good citizenship and scholastic grades, and a desire to further their musical education. From the original group of 300, 82 were selected from 40 Greater Boston high schools and the "Greater Bostonians" moved from dream to reality. In June 1968, their first hour-long television special generated such tremendous public response that the program was repeated the following September. Since then, the group has made a number of record albums and they have appeared throughout the New England area. Each year graduating seniors are replaced by auditions held in the Fall.

The Concert on April 15, is the first appearance for the group in the Merrimack Valley. The program is sponsored by the Lawrence General Hospital Aid Association and tickets may be purchased at the Lawrence General Hospital Hospitality Shop, Macartney's in Lawrence and Sutherland's in Andover.

Film At Temple

"The Gardens of the Finzi-Continis," a movie, will be shown at Temple Emanuel, 483 Lowell St., Lawrence, Saturday, April 7 at 8 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Teen Age Youth Group.

The showing, open to the public, will be followed by the serving of refreshments.

Ballet

The library is proud to present a children's ballet group to inaugurate its National Library Week observance. Joseph G.
Dussault will direct the Greater Lawrence Children's Ballet Company on Monday evening, April 9, at 8 p.m. The program will include Excerpts from Les Sylphides by Chopin, Variations from the Nutcracker Suite by Tchaikovsky, Scottish Variations, and Excerpts from Swan Lake by Tchaikovsky.

Music

The second evening program of National Library Week will be devoted to music presented by the string section of the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra. Zari Bogosian, soprano, will sing, and Joseph Pulvino will conduct the orchestra. The musicians are brought to the library through the courtesy of the Music Performance Trust Fund of the Recording Industries in cooperation with the Greater Lawrence Musicians Union, Local 372. The program will begin at 7:30 on April 10.

Tea and Friends

The annual Friendship Tea will be held at the library on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30, April 11.
The Friends of the Library will sponsor this event which is given to honor the foreign students in our area. There will be folkdancing and other entertainment.

Poetry at Night

In the evening of April 11, at 8 p.m., there will be another treat in store when Jack Zucker comes to read his poetry. Mr. Zucker is a teacher of Creative Writing at Phillips Academy, Andover, and he has published many of his poems.

Lecture

The rate of increase in the number of cases of venereal disease has made this a public health problem of epidemic
proportion. Paul R. Rogal, M.D.
has accepted an invitation from the library staff to talk here on the prevalence of venereal disease
in our area, and what is being done
to combat it. If you wish to be brought up to date on the subject, be sure and hear Dr. Rogal. He will be speaking at 8 p.m. on Thursday evening, April 12 in the upstairs
hall.

Military Chess

For our young people we have planned a military chess tournament under the direction of Edward Need for two days, April 13 and 14. Edward is President, Merrimack Valley Chapter, of the Spartan International Competition League for military chess. The tournament will begin at 1 p.m. on Friday and continue until 9 p.m. and start again on Saturday when it will be in progress from 9 until 5. Any young person of junior high age and over may participate.

Great Books

The Great Books group will meet on April 10 and discuss Flowering Judas and other stories by Katherine Anne Porter. The meeting begins at 7:30. The last meeting of the group will be on April 24 at which time the members will discuss Flewhon by Samuel Butler.

Children's Room

March was a wonderful month
of models. On Wednesday, March 21, we had a strong turnout of model ships - everything from an English Cog and the U.S. Constitution to aircraft
carriers and the Nautilus.
Matthew Lenoe, age 9, Ross
Carlisle, age 10, and Albie Cullen,
9, won first, second, and third
prize respectively for model
ships made without kits. Michael
Gannon, grade 5, David Avery,
10, and David Jennings, grade 4,
won first, second, and third prizes for models made from kits.

Our model animal display on March 28 drew 20 exhibitors and a wide range of animals, including a wooly mammoth, a bald eagle, many horses, and a dragon. Model animals made without kits by Sara Lenoe and David Avery won first and second prize. Third prize in this category was divided among
Paul Avery, Amy McCormick
and Patrick McCormick. Andrew
Duffy, Bradley Goodsen, and Robert Pescarella, all from the South School Model Club, placed
first, second, and third for models made from kits. Honorable mention for these animal models has to go to: Ross
Lane, Susanna Lenoe, Ann
Avery, Susan Getgood, Peggy
Harrington, Jay DiIorio, Richard
Meagher, Jay Eldred, Jon-marc
Brideau, Randy Mitton, Robert
Sutton, and Scott Nolan. All of these models were very well
done.

Thomas Dengler, age 11, is showing his collection of rocks
and minerals in the Children's Room display case this month.

Pajama Party, the hour of games, stories, and songs, open
to 3½ to 5 year olds who are not registered in Littlest Listeners,
will begin at 6:15 p.m. on Tuesday, April 10. Register at the library so we'll have enough supplies on hand. Come in PJs, of course.

Dr. Stewart In Address To Council

By popular request Dr. James A. Stewart of the Musgrove Building in Andover, was again a guest participant in the Merrimack River Girl Scout Council program held in Lowell on Tuesday, March 20. The "College of Scouting Day" had approximately 150 enrollees in the three-session day.

There were 26 concentrated and exciting learning opportunities which ranged from Culinary Arts, Troop Leadership, Oriental Arts, Creative Drama, Value Clarification and Behavior Clinic.

The latter proved to be one of the highlights of the day as Dr. Jim Stewart gave an informative presentation on the "Problems associated with adolescent females" and then extemporaneously answered the many relative questions from the audience. Concerns about cliques, motivation problems, attitude changes, guidance and/or freedom, and the drug problem were all expressed.

As a school psychologist specializing in counseling children and youth for the past twenty-five years and as a former professor in graduate schools in both Canada and the United States Dr. Stewart was able to provide a broad perspective and sensitivity to the needs of today's youth. His extensive training and experience make him a valued member of Andover's professional community.

Opportunity for lunch, coffee and supper were provided for the day which was planned by the training committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Lounsbury of Wilmington.

Local area residents who attended were: Marilyn Nolan, Mrs. Frank Rawson, Charlotte Tarbox, Rosalie Eaton, Marilyn Hopping, Mrs. Alex Tullis, Nina Anthony, Mrs. Vayne-Stanwood, Mrs. Pat Bernardin, Mrs. Judy Pinckney, Millicent Plant, Cecile Martin, Mrs. George Oleson, Mrs. Bea Pfister and Shirley Jackson.

Greater Bostonians In Concert

The "Greater Bostonians," who will appear in concert on Sunday, April 15 at Tenney Memorial High School Auditorium, are the creation of

Executive Producer Bob Cheyne. The objective was to offer high school students an opportunity to perform current popular music for chorus and orchestra under the most skillful direction and professional surroundings. It was hoped that such training and experience would prove invaluable for later years and the fine youthful talent would be a showcase to New England television viewers of a group of young people truly representative of the finest generation in our nation's history.

More than 300 high school students recommended by their school music directors showed up for the first auditions in January, 1968. The requirements were talent, good citizenship and scholastic grades, and a desire to further their musical education. From the original group of 300, 82 were selected from 40 Greater Boston high schools and the "Greater Bostonians" moved from dream to reality. In June 1968, their first hour-long television special generated such tremendous public response that the program was repeated the following September. Since then, the group has made a number of record albums and they have appeared throughout the New England area. Each year graduating seniors are replaced by auditions held in the Fall.

The Concert on April 15, is the first appearance for the group in the Merrimack Valley. The program is sponsored by the Lawrence General Hospital Aid Association and tickets may be purchased at the Lawrence General Hospital Hospitality Shop, Macartney's in Lawrence and Sutherland's in Andover.

Film At Temple

"The Gardens of the Finzi-Continis," a movie, will be shown at Temple Emanuel, 483 Lowell St., Lawrence; Saturday, April 7 at 8 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Teen Age Youth Group.

The showing, open to the public, will be followed by the serving of refreshments.

Although it has about 50% more luggage room than the biggest sedan, gets 24 mpg, boasts electronic fuel injection and front disc brakes, there's one drawback. It doesn't cost very much.

412 WAGON

With many luxury wagons extras cost extra. Not so with the 412 luxury wagon. Radial tires, front disc brakes, fully automatic transmission, electronic fuel injection—all standard equipment.

And how many wagons can you think of that are this big on quality, but this small on price? We can only think of three.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

for the financing of the introduction of the chemical into the water.

It was defeated on a hand vote.

The Greater Lawrence Community Drug Council was afforded $18,000 as the town's contribution to its continuing efforts.

Other major items covered in the final session included $200,000 for new water mains, use of $500,000 free cash to reduce the tax rate and $90,000 for utility line extension for a proposed industrial tenant in Lowell Junction.

The voters approved $45,600 to install a sprinkler system in the Bancroft school, thus resulting in a savings on insurance costs, and $4,500 for repairs to the Recreation Park Lodge, but rejected a $13,100 request to install a boating facility at Pumps Pond.

Operation of snowmobiles were banned in town through adoption of a bylaw amendment and the Conservation Commission was awarded use of funds to acquire land in specific locations with the assistance of state self-help funds.

The police department will become part of a mutual aid agency through approval of an article which permitted the town to enter into such an agreement with neighboring communities.

Through town meeting action, observers indicate a possible increase of $4 in the town's tax rate. While predictions have become passe this year, conservative estimates prior to the opening of the session placed the new levy at $53, but an additional $120,000 was tacked onto the estimates and recommendations, thus the $54 per thousand looms as a distinct possibility.

sion to Committeeman William Lane, who said he was shocked to read in the SAT test book the company's own disclaimers of the validity of the tests Andover has used the past two years, which were last revised in the post-Sputnik early 1960's. Lane said he could not vote until he was more sure "whether the SATs measure what Andover wants to know." He hopes to learn this from the system's administrators. Lane and Committeeman William King also were concerned with how tests results would be used.

Several visitors left at the meeting's post-midnight end unhappy that the board had not decided in favor of full-scale SAT testing then and there. Developments Tuesday night indicate that the board is unpolarizing on this issue, and is closer together than many of their adherents in the community. "We're not that far apart," was repeated by several committeemen.

To wit: Chairman Dr. Frank Griggs has taken a new position on tests results. In answer to a question from Walter Hughes, Doherty PTO president, Griggs said: "I've always been for opening up completely and publishing the results school by school. Now I'm modifying my position. My intent now is for the school committee to use the three years results of SAT's, school by school, alone. I am interested, and I feel it our responsibility to be interested, if particular schools in the system are falling behind. I see this as an internal thing, for school committee use only."

And when Les McDowell, 19 Osgood St., was concerned that "If the SATs are low, are you going to scrap IMS?" the chairman replied, "No, we'd use it as a basis of modifying, IMS programs." Griggs, Lyons and Wragg also agreed that SAT scores are only part of the evaluation of school programs.

On the other hand, the three point out, the school system has tested full-scale with SAT's for two years, and was already planning to sample test again this year. Doesn't it make more sense to have full tests at all grade levels again, in order to get a baseline for evaluation of basic skills? The three committeemen state their testing purposes as evaluation of each child, evaluation of programs and consistency, of procedure.

Many in the audience agreed. "I want someone to be accountable for my child, otherwise he could go on forever not learning," said Mrs. Marilyn Ahern, 33 Wild Rose Drive. Ethel Howard, 16 Bowdoin Road, also spoke for outside evaluation of program and children. Dr. Seifert agreed with her on the need for outside evaluation, but said "we just want to be sure we are using the measure that gives us the information we want."

Douglas Mitchell, 172 High Plain Road, cited the need to establish criteria for the measure before beginning to measure, and said he thought the committee was putting too much emphasis on results and not enough on process. Another parent, Louis Yelle, 5 Shirley Road, retorted that "we want to know if the process is not getting the results we want."

Another parent saw it differently. "The new programs are supposed to develop responsibility and other non-academic community traits that the committeemen earlier this evening were saying were important ends of education. But SAT's don't measure this."

"We're not putting all our (evaluation) eggs in one basket," assured him. "At least today the SAT's do a good job of measuring what they say they measure - basic skills - and that's one factor we want to know."

Dr. Seifert agreed that the SAT's had been helpful to the school system two years ago in showing that one out of six Andover students (this was before any of the new programs were in operation, he noted) had serious trouble with the basic skills - were semi-literate. "This was why we went out to construct instructional programs that are predictable, that give you quick evidence at any point whether a child has or has not mastered certain skills."

He agreed on the need in testing, and justified the use of the SAT's, saying "While the SAT company admits it has not kept pace with new educational programs, the tests did show us as a system where we had to improve, and that was a help."

"But how are you going to measure the new programs?" Mrs. Ahern wanted to know. The individualized programs built-in tests and records show specifically what a child can and cannot do," Seifert replied.

One parent was still worried about misuse of the tests by the community. "Parents and teachers aren't working together the way they were two years ago when I came to Andover because of the schools. There are people in the community who want to use these tests to chop off heads, and to use one school against another. I hope that you would use these tests responsibly." Griggs replied that he certainly hoped the tests results would be used responsibly.

John Lyons noted that the political situation is not so volatile now, and he certainly hoped the two weeks delay won't be used by the community to place phone calls to influence committeemen.

Seifert agreed, saying that the delay was to allow the professional educators a chance to give their professional judgments on evaluation of programs, and objective tests, to the committee. "This is for communication inside the organization."
